

MANY MOURN AT CASKET OF PALLAS

Trouching Grief Shown by Park Department Employees and Children.

So steady has been the stream of mourners through the residence of Miss Bertha C. Lator, at No. 541 Lexington avenue, where the body of Park Commissioner John J. Pallas is lying, that the intention of removing the remains to Scranton, Pa., to-day for interment has been abandoned.

A short funeral service will be held at the house at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and the body removed to the LaGuardia station, whence it will be taken to Scranton. Funeral services will be held there and Commissioner Pallas will be buried beside his father and mother.

Delegations from the various Irish societies of which the Commissioner was a member visited the house last night. There were also delegations from many labor organizations with which he was affiliated or had helped in some way.

Park Employees Grieve.
During the day every employee of the Park Department who could be spared from duty went to take a last view of his chief. The genuine grief of the humble laborers for their lost chief was touching, most of all those who had come in contact with the Park Commissioner in an official way. The Park Department laborers had reason to regret his death. He had been their friend. In many ways he had looked out for their interests.

He had introduced what was known in the department as the "square-deal" rule. No man was allowed to press a complaint unless he was willing to stand up and make it face to face with the man he accused. That was the principal reason why the subordinates of Commissioner Pallas held him in such deep regard.

Little Students Lower Flag.
Another touching evidence of his popularity came from the little students of agriculture at the De Witt Clinton School Farm, Fifty-second street and Eleventh avenue. When Mrs. Henry Parsons, who devotes her leisure in instructing the children, telephoned yesterday to have the flag half-masted, she was told that the flag already was lowered. The children had done that themselves.

Later Mrs. Parsons visited the farm and found that a picture of the Commissioner had been clipped from a newspaper, surrounded with a border of black and gashed up, with this notice beneath it:

"The farm is closed until Saturday on account of the death of Commissioner Pallas."

HENNESSY BELIEVES DEMOCRATS WILL WIN.

On Eve of Sailing Says He Would Like to See Hearst Elected by Large Majority.

Among those who sailed on the White Star liner Baltic to-day was Charles O'Connell, accompanied by his son Frank. Mr. O'Connell was chairman of the convention which in 1886 nominated Henry George for Mayor of New York. "I have fought all my life for municipal ownership," said Mr. O'Connell, "and I would like to see Mr. Hearst win. But if the Democrats hold their party they will win."

On the passenger list of the liner were Lawrence C. Phillips, W. B. Ogden and Mrs. Ogden, Charles McCormack, W. H. Johns, Major H. P. Van der Zee, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tait, Miss Mary Ableton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Milne Barbour and Sir Ernest Cochrane.

$15 Suits and Overcoats for Men.

At Fifteen Dollars we make Men's Suits and Overcoats that are true to the principles and practice of good tailoring. And were it not for a staff of tailors who know no other kind of tailoring but the best, it would be impossible to incorporate in our suits and overcoats at Fifteen Dollars the distinctive individuality and character that mark every garment. If you would understand this better, compare with our Fifteen Dollar Suits and Overcoats the usual ready-made garments at the same price. You will grant a great difference in our favor.

We present at $15 sack suits in the new single and double breasted models, made of cassimeres in the new tones and effects, plain and fancy chevrons and blue and black Thibets.

Of overcoats there are covers in the new shades, wide wale chevrons and black Thibets, fashioned in short box and medium length models.

Other suits and overcoats $15 to $40.

WM. VOGEL & SON,
Broadway Houston St.

KING EDWARD IN KILTS AND THE KAISER IN WAR ROBES.

King Edward.

Emperor William.

Their Latest Pictures.

King Edward's appearance in kilts has pleased the Scots to such an extent that portraits of the British ruler have been distributed throughout Scotland. He is rather proud of the picture, because it shows that his limbs are straight and muscular.

Emperor William, not to be outdone by the ruler of Great Britain, has posed for a photograph in his war togs. The Emperor is proud of his appearance as a military man, and his war robes show him to be a soldier—every inch of him.

TOOK ACID BY MISTAKE.

Woman Is Terribly Burned About Face and Mouth.

Mary Buymann, thirty-seven years old, of No. 417 Grand street, was removed to Gouverneur Hospital to-day suffering from acid poisoning. The woman has fever and says she took something, she does not know what by mistake for her medicine. She was terribly burned about the face and mouth.

FIRE IN A MAINE TOWN.

OLD TOWN, Me., Oct. 18.—Fire last night burned a three-story frame house, two wood working shops, two stables and a dwelling, all owned by the Jordan Lumber Company. Bailey Company's grist mill and elevator and a quantity of lumber.

Heat Costs Nothing

when you use the "Heat-Light" GAS JET GENERATOR. The GENERATOR converts the waste heat of your gas burner by a scientific principle of construction the heat is sent to the floor instead of the ceiling. The illuminating power of the gas is increased by the GENERATOR instead of being diminished. Increased 50 per cent. Not a foot more gas is consumed for heat and light. Can be attached to any burner. A child can do it. Sent postpaid for $1.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Write for descriptive pamphlet. Agents wanted. WM. M. CHASE CO., Room 3, 1131-33 Broadway, N. Y.

WM. VOGEL & SON.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar. Equal defect, Our Sizing Collar. Our new Sizing Collar.

HIGHWAYMEN CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

Thieves Dodge Bullets and Drop Bundles of Booty Along the Street.

Halted by the cross fire from the revolvers of half a dozen policemen after an exciting chase through the intertwining streets of the lower east side, Samuel Greenberg, of No. 282 East Third street, and Thomas Costello, of No. 195 Mott street, were arrested in Jackson street early to-day and locked up on charges of burglary and highway robbery.

The popping of the revolvers as the police chased the fugitives through Cherry, Montgomery, Madison, Gouverneur, Water, Scammon and Jackson streets aroused the entire Cherry Hill district.

Harry Lucks, a jewelry salesman,

Lucks took it on the run with the highwaymen in pursuit, but they fell back when the form of a policeman loomed up at the corner of Clinton street and East Broadway. There Lucks encountered Roundman Becker and a reporter. He told his story, described the highwaymen minutely and insisted on being escorted home.

At Cherry and Montgomery, the reporter said he would trail the highwaymen through Cherry street while the roundman went on with Lucks. In front of No. 32 Cherry street, the reporter saw two men sitting on a doorstep. Having nothing to lose but his reputation, he stepped boldly up and asked them for a match. It was a trick worthy of Sherlock Holmes. The match was produced. The reporter ignited it, and as he lighted his cigarette he illumined the suspicious pair and saw they answered the description of Lucks's highwaymen. With a calm "Good night!" he sauntered down the block, turned the corner and darted over to Montgomery street to give the tip to Becker.

Thieves Dodge Bullets.
The roundman unlimbered his revolver and advanced to the chase. The highwaymen saw him and broke into a run. Each had a bundle under his arm. They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and

while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street

to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which

an expressman had left a wagon loaded

with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall

and hitched it to the wagon, and were

evidently waiting for a clear coast

before driving off with many hundred

dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and

while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street

to pick up the abandoned booty. In one

bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other

contained dry goods. Becker discovered

that No. 32 was a stable yard in which

an expressman had left a wagon loaded

with merchandise which he had just

delivered when right overtook him. The

thieves had taken a nose from its stall

and hitched it to the wagon, and were

evidently waiting for a clear coast

before driving off with many hundred

dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

THIEVES DODGE BULLETS AND DROP BUNDLES OF BOOTY ALONG THE STREET.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and

while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street

to pick up the abandoned booty. In one

bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other

contained dry goods. Becker discovered

that No. 32 was a stable yard in which

an expressman had left a wagon loaded

with merchandise which he had just

delivered when right overtook him. The

thieves had taken a nose from its stall

and hitched it to the wagon, and were

evidently waiting for a clear coast

before driving off with many hundred

dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and

while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street

to pick up the abandoned booty. In one

bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other

contained dry goods. Becker discovered

that No. 32 was a stable yard in which

an expressman had left a wagon loaded

with merchandise which he had just

delivered when right overtook him. The

thieves had taken a nose from its stall

and hitched it to the wagon, and were

evidently waiting for a clear coast

before driving off with many hundred

dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

THIEVES DODGE BULLETS AND DROP BUNDLES OF BOOTY ALONG THE STREET.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first report from Becker's revolver. The shots drew other policemen, and the highwaymen were busy dodging bullets as they raced through Madison street to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon, and finally into Jackson street, where the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street to pick up the abandoned booty. In one bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other contained dry goods. Becker discovered that No. 32 was a stable yard in which an expressman had left a wagon loaded with merchandise which he had just delivered when right overtook him. The thieves had taken a nose from its stall and hitched it to the wagon, and were evidently waiting for a clear coast before driving off with many hundred dollars' worth of booty.

run. Each had a bundle under his arm.

They dropped their booty at the first

report from Becker's revolver. The

shots drew other policemen, and the

highwaymen were busy dodging bullets

as they raced through Madison street

to Gouverneur, to Water, to Scammon,

and finally into Jackson street, where

the pursuers closed in about them.

Policeman Krouse nabbed them, and

while they were being taken to the station Becker went back to Cherry street

to pick up the abandoned booty. In one

bundle was a lot of sweaters. The other

contained dry goods. Becker discovered

that No. 32 was a stable yard in which

an expressman had left a wagon loaded

with merchandise which he had just

delivered when right overtook him. The

thieves had taken a nose from its stall

and hitched it to the wagon, and were

evidently waiting for a clear coast

</